DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment filed November 27, 2002 in which the Specification and Claims 1-20 have been amended, has been place of record in the file as Paper No. 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 3. Claim 1, 9 and 16-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Browning et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,409,564). With regard to Claim 1, Browning et al. discloses a method for manufacturing a flat panel display comprising the steps of: providing a baseplate (11) and a faceplate (16); desorption processing the faceplate (16) in a vacuum (Column 3, Lines 43-49); merging the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16); and sealing the vacuum (Column 3, Lines 43-49) between the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16). See Fig. 2 and Column 4, Lines 23-49, Column 6, Lines 1-7 and Lines 49-63.

With regard to Claims 9 and 16-20, Browning et al. disclose a method for manufacturing a flat panel display comprising the steps of: providing a baseplate (11) and a faceplate (16); desorption processing the faceplate (16) in a vacuum (Column 3, Lines 43-49); merging the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16); and sealing the vacuum (Column 3, Lines 43-49) between the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16), the desorption processing including pre-aging the faceplate (16), the desorption processing including pre-aging before merge of the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16), the pre-aging using irradiation with electrons from an electron gun (13). See Fig. 2 and Column 4, Lines 23-49, Column 6, Lines 1-7 and Lines 49-63.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 5. Claim 2-8, and 10-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Browning et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,409,564). With regard to Claim 2, Browning et al. discloses the claimed invention except the use of a vacuum from 10-7 to 10-8 torr.

Art Unit: 2833

However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a vacuum from 10-7 to 10-8 torr, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617, F. 2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

With regard to Claim 3, Browning et al. discloses the step of desorption processing including scrubbing the faceplate (16) before sealing the vacuum (Column 3, Lines 43-49) between the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16). See Fig. 2 and Column 4, Lines 23-49, Column 6, Lines 1-7 and Lines 49-63.

With regard to Claims 4-5, Browning et al. discloses the scrubbing the faceplate (16) using plasma sputtering, the plasma sputtering using a low atomic weight gas. See Fig. 2 and Column 4, Lines 23-49, Column 6, Lines 1-7 and Lines 49-63.

With regard to Claims 6-8, 10,13, 15, Browning et al. discloses the claimed invention except the plasma sputtering using a faceplate voltage of -10 to -1000 mV, the plasma sputtering using a faceplate voltage of +10 to + 1000 mV, the plasma sputtering applying a faceplate voltage for about I to 60 minutes, the pre-aging the faceplate being performed from 120 to 300 minutes, the pre-aging using irradiation with electrons having a current density of 5 to 10 times higher than that of the faceplate during normal operation, or the pre-aging including application of a voltage of 6 to 9 kV between the baseplate and the faceplate.

However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the plasma sputtering using a faceplate voltage of -10 to -1000 mV, the plasma sputtering using a faceplate voltage of +10 to + 1000 mV, the plasma sputtering applying a faceplate voltage for about I to 60 minutes, the pre-aging the faceplate being performed from 120 to 300 minutes, the pre-aging using irradiation with electrons having a current density of 5 to 10 times higher than that of the faceplate during normal operation, or the pre-aging including application of a voltage of 6 to 9 kV between the baseplate and the faceplate, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617, F. 2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

With regard to Claims 11-12, and 14, Browning et al. disclose a method for manufacturing a flat panel display comprising the steps of: providing a baseplate (11) and a faceplate (16); desorption processing the faceplate (16) in a vacuum (Column 3, Lines 43-49); merging the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16); and sealing the vacuum (Column 3, Lines 43-49) between the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16), the desorption processing including pre-aging the faceplate (16), the desorption processing including pre-aging before merge of the baseplate (11) and the faceplate (16), the pre-aging using irradiation with electrons from an electron gun (13). See Fig. 2 and Column 4, Lines 23-49, Column 6, Lines 1-7 and Lines 49-63.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed November 27, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which

et al. reference.

applicant relies (i.e., the screen scrubbing prior to assembly of the device not limited to oxygen (and/or sulfur) contamination prior assembly) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). In the instant case, Applicant's claims only require screen scrubbing prior to the assembly of the device which would read on the Browning
